Dear Brethren,
Your obliged & constant friend, W. W. Mahan.

but its main purpose, while her many gifts & talents have been hidden in domestic life. Her exhibition of her high principles & noble example cannot fail to do great good especially at the present time.

I have wondered how it was that we came into no relations with her in the Cause, — tho I recollect that She was so much of that time traveling on the Continent with her husband — a valetudinarman, dependent on her constant care & self-sacrifice. A situation which precludes any of that quasi-public activity that brings persons into acquaintance with others like-minded.

Did you notice Mrs. Blake's admirable remarks at Albany, before a Legislature, I think, in the Autumn of the 22? — I have seen nothing so searching, comprehensive & clearly set forth. The inability of women to have their cases presented, & to have just judgement & righteous verdicts given, on account of the temptations to buy votes by throwing over the Client, Plaintiff or defendant if a Woman & as such this franchise, is not often thought of & have observed, among women. & Mrs Blake touches upon it's fetiteurship. Who & What is She? Have you known any thing of Mrs.

Butler (Josephine) the English Advocate in life & achieved so many good things? She is a dear friend of mine, & I have come
